

made to delegates to take their seats and let the speaker go on. They were answered by more noise.

Finally quiet was restored and Mr. Glynn resumed his speech. Mr. Glynn's long recital of efforts by President Wilson and former President Taft to preserve American neutrality and keep peace was frequently interrupted by applause.

"Go on, go on," came shouts from the crowd.

"All right, I'll hit them hard," Glynn answered.

GLYNN CALLED ON TO REPEAT ONE PART OF HIS SPEECH.

When Glynn eloquently pictured the glories of the peace which the Democratic had achieved, there was a big demonstration. He was called upon three times to repeat the section of his speech—"this policy does satisfy the mothers of the land at whose hearth and fireside no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair. It does satisfy the daughters of this land, from whom bluster and brag has sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave. It does satisfy the fathers of this land and the sons of this land who will fight for our flag and die for our flag when Honor primes the rifle, when Honor draws the sword, when Justice breathes a blessing on the standards they uphold."

The cheering from the floor was led by Mrs. Marian Monroe of Washington, a woman delegate.

Ex-Gov. Glynn was given a hearty demonstration at the close of his speech, which was out of the ordinary and ranked as an oratorical effort far above any utterance in the Republican convention last week.

The convention perfected its permanent organization and adjourned until to-morrow.

St. Louis ran true to form in weather and furnished a stormy, cloudy day for the opening of the convention. The Coliseum is an elliptical building about the size of Madison Square Garden, and the delegates and alternates occupy what would be the arena were this a real circus; the speakers' platform and press stands occupy one of the long sides of the hall, and spectators are accommodated in two galleries which run entirely around the building.

DELEGATES TAKE TIME IN GETTING TOGETHER.

With their usual leisurely deliberation, the Democrats took their time about getting together and at noon, when the convention was advertised, the platform was empty, the hall was only half filled and the only prominent Democrats in sight were John J. Martin, of St. Louis, the sergeant-at-arms, who gets into the limelight once every four years and remains glued to the spot as the light prevails, and Charlie White, of New York, whose glistening dome moving rapidly from place to place gave movement to the landscape, as it were.

Then the big men of the party began to arrive. The Democrats are more demonstrative than their Republican brethren, and when Senator Ollie James of Kentucky entered and walked through the hall he got a grand reception. Gov. Glynn, not so well known, was nevertheless warmly greeted when he appeared. Charles F. Murphy got into the hall and to his seat before he was recognized, but some saw him, and he was cheered anyhow. However, the biggest thing about this opening of the convention wasn't the opening of the convention; it was the remarkable demonstration of the suffragists who are trying just as hard to get the Democrats to endorse constitutional suffrage as if they had a chance.

At 10 o'clock this morning there formed on both sides of Locust Street, the main thoroughfare between the Jefferson Hotel and the Coliseum, a double line of white-clad women, wearing yellow badges and carrying yellow parasols. They took their position along the edge of the sidewalk on both sides of the street, and in a few minutes they had formed their "golden lane." The women were in pairs, one sitting on a camp stool, the other standing behind her and holding aloft an open parasol.

TWO WALLS OF WOMEN HALF A MILE LONG.

Imagine two walls of women half a mile long, silent—for they were forbidden to speak—earnest and concentrated, the effectiveness of it was startling. As a demonstration of feminine ability to organize and execute on a large scale it stands out as a wonderful achievement.

Standing at Jefferson Avenue and Locust Street, in front of the Convention Hall, and on an elevation, one saw, stretching away to the east until they were lost in the humid haze, two wavering ribbons of yellow, representing something new in politics. But the demonstration will avail nothing in positive results in the Convention, for the Democrats are for State rights on the question of suffrage.

GREAT CHEERS FOR BRYAN IN THE CONVENTION HALL.

William Jennings Bryan showed that he still has a grip on the Democratic Party when he made his way to his seat at the World's press table in the Convention. The band had just played "Dixie" and the "Red, White and Blue" and thousands of voices had joined in singing the words when Mr. Bryan suddenly demonstrated that he is the John L. Sullivan of the Democratic.

There are eight seats at the World's press table, and Mr. Bryan's in the seat on the end overlooking the delegates. The tables are close together and Mr. Bryan's progress to his place was slow. He was immediately recognized and a great roar of welcome went up. Delegates and spectators alike stood up and cheered and waved flags and hats. Burning with gratification, Mr. Bryan bowed his acknowledgment. The demonstration continued for some time after he took his seat and started in on his work as one of our staff correspondents.

Mr. Bryan did not stick to his work. Numerous patriots wouldn't let him, delegates flocked toward him from all directions, formed in a line and filed by, shaking his hand.

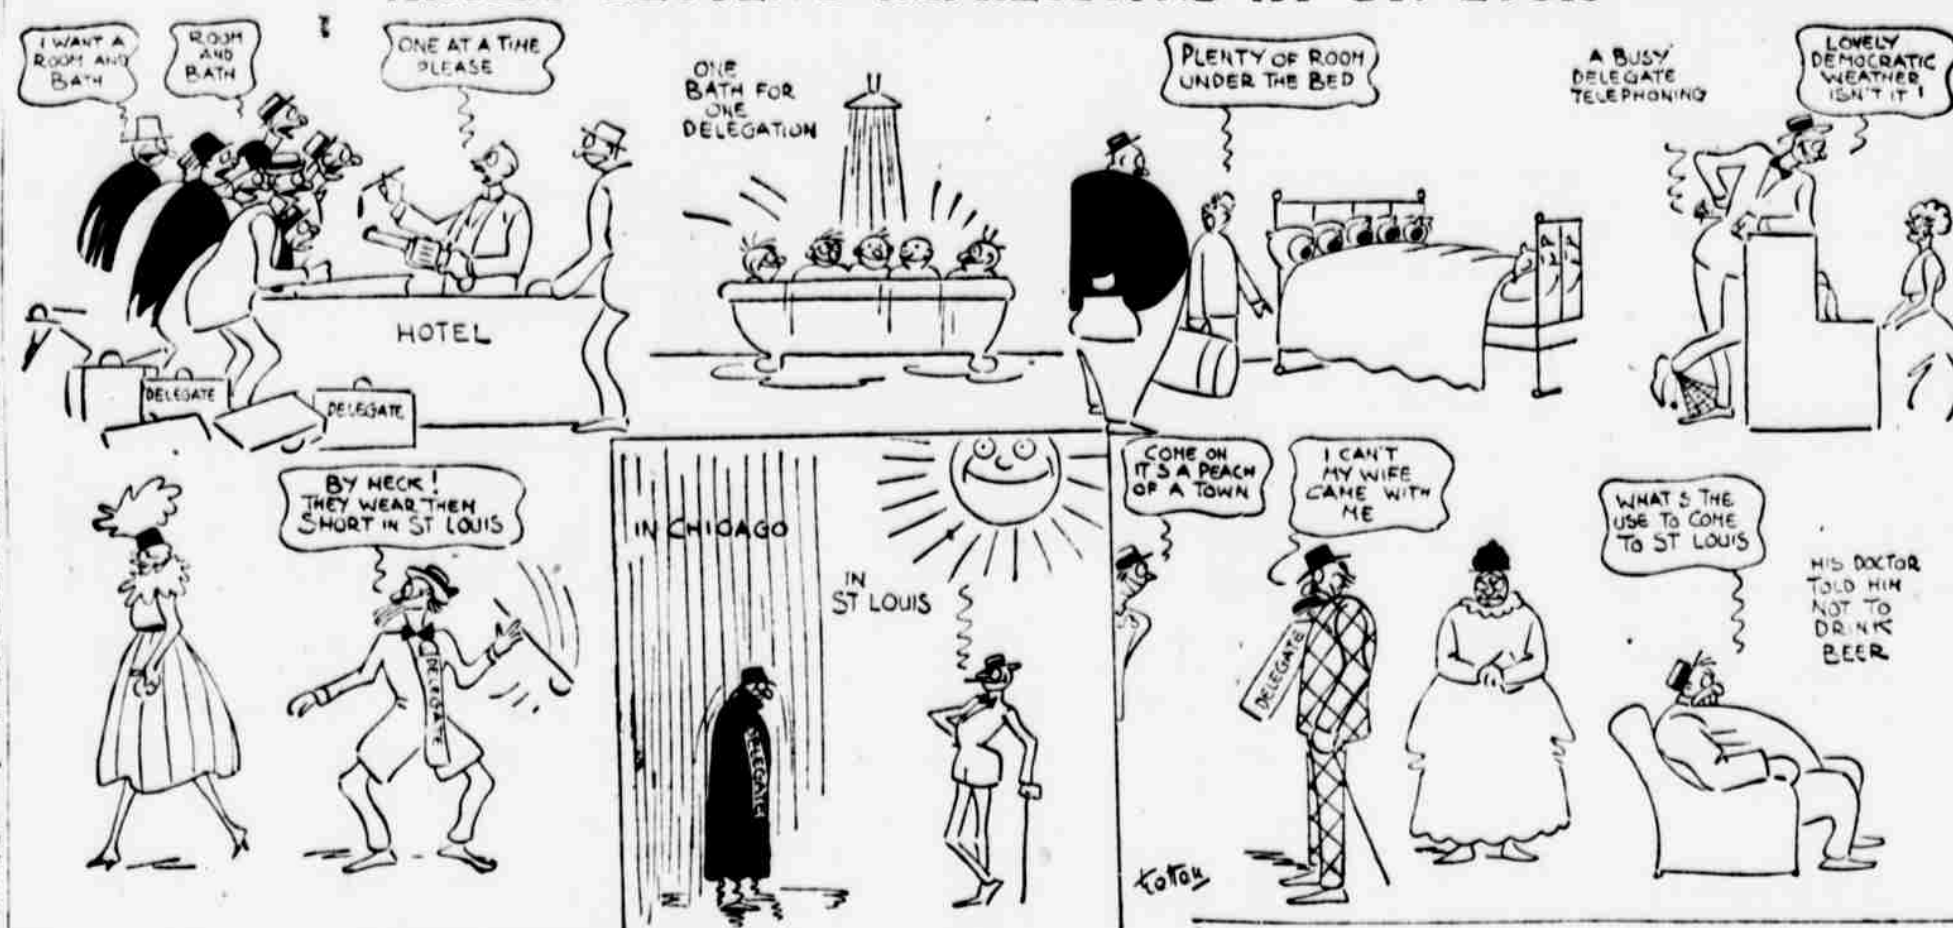

The Convention was called to order by National Chairman McCombs at 12:30 o'clock. Without any delay the gathering proceeded to sing "America," and thousands of voices joined in a volume of sound that waved the draperies on the roof of the Coliseum.

McCOMBS TALKS OF VICTORY IN OPENING SPEECH.

"We are in an atmosphere of victory," said Chairman McCombs. "We have no feeling of guess, but a spirit of certainty. We meet to celebrate the marvelous achievements of the Democratic party since it came into power and to place a milestone upon the path of its future success."

MARTIN GLYNN LAUDS WILSON IN KEYNOTE SPEECH

Delivers Remarkable Address as Temporary Chairman of Democratic National Convention.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—With the assertion that no President since the Civil War has had as crucial problems to solve, and no President has displayed a grasp more sure, a statesmanship more profound, than President Wilson, Martin H. Glynn, former Governor of New York, made a keynote speech as Temporary Chairman of the Democratic National Convention here to-day.

In asking the indorsement of the President's peace policy Mr. Glynn said: "For two years the world has been affre; the civilization that we know has been torn by the mightiest struggle in its history. Sparks from Europe's conflagration have blazed in our own skies, echoes of her strife have sounded at our very doors. That fire still burns, that struggle still continues, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay; thus far it has saved its people from participation in the conflict."

WILSON'S STAND LIKE THAT OF WASHINGTON.

"The President of the United States stands to-day where stood the men who made America and who saved America. He stands where John Adams stood when he told King George that America was the land he loved and that peace was her grandeur and her welfare. He stands where Gen. Grant stood when he said there never was a war that could not have been settled better some other way, and he has shown his willingness to try the ways of peace before he seeks the paths of war. He stands where George Washington stood when he prayed that this country would never unseat the sword except in self-defense so long as justice and our essential rights could be preserved without it."

"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, if Lincoln was right, then the President of the United States is right to-day; if the Republican leaders are right then Lincoln was wrong and Jefferson was wrong and Hamilton was wrong and Washington was wrong."

"Neutrality is the policy which has kept us at peace while Europe has been driving the nails of war through the hands and feet of a crucified humanity."

"When Grant was President, during the war between Spain and the Spanish West Indies, a Spanish gunboat seized the vessel Virginia flying the ARMY FUND BILL ADVANCED.

Favorable Report Ordered on Measure Carrying $175,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—A favorable report was ordered by the House Military Committee to-day on the annual Army Appropriation Bill, carrying $175,000,000.

It makes provision for the increase and changes authorized by the new army reorganization bill and includes $500,000 for civilian training camps.

May Carry Revolver, But—

George Auger, who is seven feet four inches tall and takes the part of a cowboy in a Coney Island show, asked Magistrate Gelsman in the Coney Island Police Court to-day for permission to carry a revolver. He explained that he couldn't put any realism into his cowboy stuff without the gun. He added that he often had to go through the island's streets late at night and needed the "weapon" for protection. Magistrate Gelsman said he'd give the permit if Auger promised not to put any cartridges in the revolver. Auger promised and received the permit.

Baby's Fall Likely to Be Fatal.

Gertrude Heaney, fourteen months old, fell to-day from a rear window of her home, No. 1833 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx, and was taken to Elisha Hospital, where it was said she had small chance of recovery. Her skull was fractured and she was injured internally.

DEMOCRATS WALK GOLDEN LANE OF TALKLESS SUFFS

Seeking "Votes" Plank, Women Give Silent Stare to Delegates on Way to Convention.

(Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—A spectacular and unprecedented feature attending the opening of the Democratic convention to-day was the "golden lane of the suffragists." They had talked a lot about it, but nobody imagined it would be such a smashing success.

For fourteen blocks along Locust Street, the thoroughfare leading directly to the Coliseum from the Hotel Jefferson, 5,000 women, clad in white, lined both curbs. They wore white dresses, yellow badges, white straw hats with a yellow band and carried yellow parasols. The line was double, one woman sitting on a camp stool, another standing behind her holding an open parasol.

A concentrated battery of 5,000 pairs of feminine eyes was turned upon the delegates as they made their way to the convention hall in an appeal of "votes for women." The attack, staged by the National Women's Suffrage organization, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, caught the fancy of everybody. Five thousand women, voiceless, motionless, with steady gaze tried for two hours to stare the convention out of countenance and into an attitude of meek receptivity.

Between the extended ranks of the women soldiers for the ballot, Democracy, headed for its quadrennial powwow, had to walk or ride.

At least 2,500 women were always on their feet, standing about two yards apart along the fourteen blocks between the hotel and the Coliseum. Between the standing women was a reserve force of 2,500 seated on chairs. The work of "standing up for suffrage" was done in shifts, the women sitting relieving their sisters at intervals.

History for the suffragists in the Democratic Convention has never been closer than "Gen." Updgraff's well laid plans to keep silent her 5,000 "marchers" in the walkless, talkless "golden lane" demonstration. It appeared likely to be shattered. The participants had promised their "generals" faithfully, that during the two hours of the display they would not utter a sound, and then in the closing hours of preparation, a tentative draught of a suffrage platform plank rendered them by Democratic leaders put them in a shouting mood. However, few if any broke the rule of silence.

The plank contains everything which the suffragists have been thinking for. It would put the party on record as favoring passage of a Constitutional amendment to franchise women. The plank also drafted voters to the large number of voting women in the twelve enfranchised States, one of the principal arguments the women have been using regarding their strength.

The plank was sent to the suffragists after it had been scrutinized carefully by the Democratic National Committee. The plank was written by a man who has been active for both the Suffragist and Democratic leaders.

GERMAN CITIZENS LOYAL TO U. S., SAYS HEXAMER

Americanism Demands True Neutrality for Defense of Rights, Alliance President Holds.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Speaking at the Flag Day exercises at the Betsy Ross House here to-day, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, President of the National German-American Alliance, declared that true Americanism knows no distinction of race or creed and does not take sides with any foreign nation.

"True Americanism," he said, "demands a true neutrality, solely for the defense of American rights and in the best interest of the United States against any aggression from which ever side it may come. It follows faithfully and loyally where our flag leads."

"Those of us of German birth and extraction are happy in the knowledge of loyalty and devotion proved upon hundreds of battlefields and thousands of civic contests by the men of our blood since the birth of our nation to the present day. They have always, as American citizens, proved their good citizenship and have been an honor to our nation."

AUSTRIANS FLEE BEFORE ITALIANS; LOSE GENERAL

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 14 (via Paris).—It is reported from Innsbruck that since June 7 the Austrians have been compelled to abandon between thirty-five and forty-five square miles of Italian territory which they gained during the first rush of their offensive. The Austrians have evacuated Chiese in the fear that their retreat would be cut off.

The Austrian General who was appointed Governor of the Italian Province of Verona is said to have been captured with his troops at Dabbio by the Russians.
